Veterinary Learning Centre

The Centre will allow us to:

• Meet the growing needs of society in terms of animal and public health

• Adapt teaching methods to meet current and future training requirements

• Increase research and development of educational tools in veterinary medicine

• Create a stimulating environment for diversified university programs in the Saint-Hyacinthe region

GOAL: Provide the FMV with a professional learning centre for undergraduate, master and PhD students, as well as veterinarians participating in the continuing education program.
Centennial Fund

The Fund will allow us to:

• Offer financial grants to Master and PhD students, residencies, internships and for any other project associated with research and education

• Encourage students to further in veterinary medicine and research

GOAL: Increase this funding source which is essential to clinical research and to financially support our students while distributing more than $200,000 annually in grants.

Animal Nutrition Chair

GOAL: Contribute to the development of high-level skills and knowledge by providing training and supervision of students. For the public, the Chair will provide an unbiased forum for expert opinion.

The Chair will allow us to:

- Increase the visibility of the industry in order to more effectively guide the clientele
- Provide the highest level of expertise to serve public interest
- Support research on animal nutritional diseases and the application of animal models to human nutritional diseases
- Centralize research and practice aspects of pet nutrition
La Faculté de médecine vétérinaire de l'Université de Montréal (FMV) vise à répondre aux besoins de la société en formant, selon les plus hauts standards, des médecins vétérinaires et des experts en santé et en bien-être animal, en sécurité alimentaire et en santé publique.
